Grounds

- Researches show that children's eyes are more at risk from dangerous UV rays than adults.
- Until a child reaches the age of 12, the eyes are more receptive to light and can be seriously damaged.
- The sooner a child gets to experience the world through quality sun lenses, the better the child's vision will develop as the years progress.

The ZEISS KidZ collection is especially designed to guarantee the maximum protection and precise vision of children's eyes, with a dedicated selection of tints, according to specific age ranges, from childhood to teenage.
